PUBLIC SPIRIT AND GARBAGE CANS

The appearance at various street corners of containers for the waste paper and refuse that from carelessness finds its way to the general clutter of main thoroughfares, should be accompanied by a popular realization that these affairs are for use, not ornament. Only by use can they be considered as ornamental.

These evidences of a desire to have the streets of the city present a better appearance may not appeal to the ordinary individual as of very great importance. Once the people wake up to the fact that it is worth while to substitute thoughtfulness for carelessness, then public spirit is beginning to give budding demonstration of life.

The person who takes the trouble to think that his city will be more attractive if the waste paper he would otherwise throw in the street were put where it belongs, and then acts accordingly, thereby adds one to the force at work for civic improvement. It is one example for others—one more step toward the formation of a public habit that is a good one. Soon he and others will do it involuntarily.

By giving attention to the little things, the apparently insignificant details of civic neatness, a thoughtful sentiment is created. There should be the same interest in having the streets of the city as a whole look well, that is usually shown in sweeping the floors and cleaning the windows at home. Public spirit can be displayed in the use of the garbage can, and lack of public spirit by the neglect of it.

Every citizen likes to be classed among the persons proud of their town. Taking care that waste shall not be thrown into the street is a good means of getting into that class.

PAYNE, PATRIOTISM AND HAWAII'S PETITION

The Honorable Sereno Payne, leader of the House of Representatives, is said to have intimated in rather direct terms that he is not favorable to the plan to set aside 75 per cent. of the Federal revenues collected in Hawaii for expenditure on fortifications, other Federal work and in the cause of education.

Mr. Payne has a right to an opinion. We have no doubt that there were leaders in Congress who opposed the Morrill Act setting aside tracts of Federal land in the States and Territories, the income from which was to be devoted to the establishment of colleges of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. Possibly some one arose to say that the States and Territories should take care of their own educational affairs.

But the far-sighted men of broad patriotism prevailed. The special legislation was enacted which was the basis for our present magnificent State Universities.

There were opponents to the plan for creating a fund derived from public land sales, to be expended in providing water for the arid lands of the west. It was certainly legislation in which the eastern States did not profit except as their interests are served in all national development.

But the far-sighted men of broad patriotism appreciated the great benefit of the work and the law was put through, which will start prosperous homes where the cactus has hitherto reigned supreme.

Now Hawaii asks that seventy-five per cent. of the revenue collected here shall be spent on Federal work within the Territory for the period of twenty years. This is asked as a guarantee that the great national necessities—fortifying against possibility of successful attack by a foreign foe and developing educational facilities for our cosmopolitan population—shall not, cannot be overlooked by Congress in the rush of rate legislation. Statehood law making that may have a leading position in the present or future Congressional mind. It is to establish a fund from which Congress shall each year appropriate for Federal—not Territorial—work in Hawaii without fear of any of this nationally important work being checked through the competition of other Congressional districts or the absence of a river and harbor bill.

The request is not unworthy of presentation by a people inspired with motives of the highest patriotism. It is the legitimate subject for a display of broad patriotism by members of Congress, by Hon. Sereno Payne.

Does some one say, "We'll look after you. We understand this national business better than you do. We'll appropriate for Federal work in Hawaii just as often as requirements demand."

We hesitate to suggest that such will not be the case. It is better in the long run to take into consideration the tendencies of appropriating bodies and occasional forgetfulness of public men.

In this connection, stop and consider how many State Universities would have been established had it not been for the Morrill Act?

How many acres of desert land would have been reclaimed for the benefit of all citizens, had it not been for the Irrigation law?

Approach it from any direction you may, the proposed rebate of seventy-five per cent. of Hawaii's Federal revenues is one that calls for action based on the same unselfish patriotism and far-sighted common sense that was displayed in the instances noted. The cause is not one whit less worthy in its national phase.

It will be extraordinary if Congress acts in a manner to suggest that patriotism, statesmanship, and development along American lines does not apply when the Territory of Hawaii calls for a program that will further guarantee the safety and progress of American interests in the Pacific.

Hawaiian Riflemen

Attract Attention

"Shooting and Fishing," a well-known New York sporting weekly, contains the following article of interest to local riflemen in its issue of Jan. 4.

"The growth of interest in the matter of rifle practice in this country since the organization of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, is highly gratifying, and everything possible is being done to stimulate that interest and to increase the facilities for target practice in the various States and Territories throughout the United States. New shooting clubs are constantly being formed and affiliated with the National Rifle Association of America, which cooperates with the National Board. In the United States possessed a million of men known to be crack shots, the possibilities of a war with foreign nations would be greatly reduced, and it was with this idea in view that the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice was organized.

"A deeper interest in this matter has been taken by some of our island possessions than by many of our States. The Hawaiians appreciate the advantage of every man being able to hit the object at which he shoots, since in case the United States should become involved in a war the island of Hawaii would be one of the most vulnerable points to attack. Upon the return of a team sent last year to take part in the national rifle match at Segre, N. J., the Hawaiian Rifle Association was formed, and, at a recent meeting of that body, it was voted to affiliate with the N. R. A. of A. Col. J. W. Jones has offered the use of the Kakaako rifle range to the association, and it is proposed to hold a shoot there about the first of January."

TOM MASSON, HUMORIST.

Tom Masson, whose clever new book, "A Corner in Women," is one of the funniest volumes of the year, is managing editor of Life and a contributor of witty, satirical and philosophical verse and prose to the magazines. Mr. Masson's full name is Thomas Lansing Masson, but he prefers the brief pen name: Tom Masson. His motto for a married man is, "Be sure you are right, then keep it to yourself."

SPENDS WIFE'S COIN ON RIOTOUS LIVING

Judge Lindsay has, on the petition of Mary J. Dickson, issued an order for Thos. Dickson to show cause why he should not be adjudged guilty of contempt by disobeying the court's order to pay the plaintiff alimony in the sum of $10 a week. Mrs. Dickson shows that since the divorce was granted on November 14, 1904, the libellee has paid only $5 in December, 1905. She shows that she is dependent on the alimony for the support of herself and her two children. One of them, a son, was working until December 15, 1905, when he was disabled by an accident. It is further shown that Dickson is a marine carpenter, capable of earning $5 a day, but he spends his earnings in riotous living and drink, and has regularly refused to pay the alimony.

"Is this a one-horse town?" asked the tombstone drummer as he stepped off the eight-hour flyer at Sow Neck. "Wa-all, stranger," responded the station leaver, "I guess you might call it a one-mule town." "Why so?" "The folks do so much kicking." — Chicago Daily News.

One hundred and fifty of the mosquito-eating fish that have been so tenderly cared for in the streams of Moanalua by Capt. Paul Smith will be placed on exhibition today in the window of one of the business houses of the city. The fish will be fed at 9 a. m. and 2 p. m., special mosquito larvae being secured to show the public how these fish devour the mosquito and clear the ponds and any other breeding places.

HILO MASONIC TEMPLE

Hilo, Jan. 16.—The Masonic Hall Association at its meeting Saturday last decided definitely to build a fine brick and stone building upon their lot recently purchased of the Territory at the corner of Waiānue and Bridge streets. The lot extends 75 feet on Waiānue and 100 feet on Bridge street. The building will be two stories in height with basement and, it is estimated, will cost at least $30,000. The upper story will be used for lodge purposes, while the lower will be constructed for the use of business houses, etc. The building will be an ornament to a very prominent corner. Construction will begin in the summer, the Association not coming into possession of the property till July, at the termination of the leases now in effect on the property.—Tribune.

SAY G. W. SMITH

COUNTY SUPERVISOR,

CAN'T LEAVE OAHU

Charles Nottley declares that according to Section 17, Chapter 7, of the County Act, Chairman Geo. W. Smith of the Board of Supervisors cannot leave the County to go to Washington as a member of the 75-per-cent. revenue delegation, because the law declares that every Supervisor must "continue to reside" in his district.

W. C. Achi and others have also, in the last few days, raised this question.

County Attorney Douthitt, Attorney J. W. Cathcart and other prominent attorneys smile broadly at the contention and brush it aside by a statement that, although Mr. Smith leaves for Washington on this mission, he continues to "reside" within his district, within the meaning of the law, having his residence here.

Following is the section which is claimed to prohibit a Supervisor leaving the County:

Section 17. Any person shall be eligible to fill any elective office created by the provision of this Act who shall be a citizen of the United States of America and of the Territory of Hawaii, and who shall have been a duly qualified elector of said Territory and of the County in which he shall be elected for at least one year next prior to his election, and in case of the members of the Board of Supervisors, the same qualifications shall be required and, in addition thereto, they shall continue to reside within the District from which they were elected during the period of their incumbency; provided, however, that no person shall be elected County Attorney who shall not, in addition to the foregoing qualifications, be a duly licensed attorney admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the Territory of Hawaii and have practiced law in the County in which he shall be a candidate for at least one year.

SAMPAK FOR KAUAI

LEAVING MONTHS AGO

NEVER HEARD FROM

Several months ago three Japanese fishermen started for Kauai in a medium-sized sampan. Nothing has ever been heard of them and it is feared the trio has been lost. James McCready, the government inspector of moorings, who has charge of the sampans at Channing wharf, was told by one of the local Japanese fishermen some time ago that none of the number had ever heard of the sampan's arrival at Kauai. The fishermen on different occasions have made inquiries along the waterfront of Kauai on vessels going to and from the island but have never found any trace of the men.

It is possible that the Japanese changed their minds and might have gone to one of the other islands. The sampan in which the men left Honolulu was a pretty good boat of its kind. However, it might have encountered rough seas and been broken to pieces and the three fishermen drowned. No reports of parts of a sampan washing ashore on any of the islands has been brought to this port since the boat left Kauai, and the Japanese still have hopes that their friends are safe somewhere and at work fishing as usual.

GOING! GOING!! GONE!!!

wbro's Herpicide

The ORIGINAL remedy that "kills the Dandruff Germ."

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED.

Most young and middle-aged men never know that their scalps are loaded with microbe growths until the hair has "gone off." Nature sends her warnings of dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair but the discovery of the dandruff germ is too recent for the public to realize the danger of neglect. Newbro's Herpicide positively destroys the dandruff microbe; stops falling hair and protects the scalp against infection. A delightful hair dressing. Slopes itching instantly. Its immense popularity proves its goodness. Save your hair while you have hair to save.
